

LECTURE SERIES #06

By Sung Kyung Kim

Associate professor,
University of North Korean Studies

Moderator and Discussant:

Jiyoon Kim

Assistant professor,
Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia, UTokyo

Gendered Mobility of North Korean Women in the Post-Cold War Era

8 February 2024 (THU)

14:00-15:30 (JST)

@ ZOOM

This lecture will provide a critical analysis of the Korean Armistice system via the lens of global migration and a feminist perspective. The state of the Korean Armistice produces the division system that organize the everyday lives of Koreans, impacting women in both North and South Korea across various aspects from militarism to the division of labor. Despite of the fact that North Korean mobile women are one of the most vulnerable groups, North Korean women actively contribute to shaping gendered migration trajectories, whether to improve their own lives or move to places with better living conditions. This multifaceted agency highlights their resilience in navigating and challenging the constraints imposed by the state of the Korean Armistice and the resulting division system.

Please register here
Inquiries: gas@ioc.u-tokyo.ac.jp

東洋文化研究所
Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia

GAS
Global
Asian Studies

